ASCS Today

By TOM CONRAD

Maryland Tobacco Information - There seems to be an increasing interest in Maryland tobacco in Appomattox County. Last year there were nine farms that produced Maryland tobacco, and from all indications there should be probably more this year.

Maryland tobacco is a non-quota tobacco, however if it is grown in an area with quota tobacco, there are certain regulations that are required as follows:

1. If the county has a Burley tobacco allotment, AMS will classify all Maryland tobacco as burley. Producers selling in Maryland should check with AMS (Agricultural Marketing Service).

2. Producers having a flue-cured tobacco allotment and planting Maryland tobacco will have the Maryland acreage counted as flue tobacco in determining compliance with the flue allotment until the Maryland is classified by AMS.

3. Producers having a fire-cured or sun-cured allotment (no flue) will have any planted Maryland counted against these allotments in determining compliance until the Maryland is classified by AMS.

4. Producers having flue, fire and sun allotments will have the Maryland planted acreage charged against the total of the allotments for the farm. If the farm is excess, the excess will be charged to any one of the allotments on the farm.

5. There will be no farm visits by AMS to classify tobacco.

Any farm that will produce Maryland tobacco in 1981 should be aware of and understand the above regulations. Farmers are advised to check with the ASCS office concerning the above regulations and the AMS certification procedure.

Prevent Yields - Notices of yields should have been received by farmers now. If you disagree with the yield established for the farm, you may apply for a proven yield by March 4, 1981. Evidence of production such as weight tickets, sales receipts, etc. must be presented for the past three years.

Premeasurement - All tobacco farms will again be checked this summer to determine acreage, and eligibility for price support. Producers are encouraged to file early so that requests can be serviced in plenty of time. Minimum cost is $14.50 per farm.

Southern States' sales volume up over last year

Southern States Cooperative's sales volume for the first six months of the 1980-81 fiscal year showed a $46,900,000 increase, as compared to the same period last year.

This was reported by Carroll Gilbert of Richmond, a regional manager of the cooperative, to a regional board conference of local agricultural leaders and young farmers held recently at Farmville.

A total of 19 of these meetings are being held this month by the cooperative across the states of Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia and Kentucky. The session will be chaired by Eldridge Sanderson of Cartersville, a member of the cooperative's board of directors.

Gilbert told the session that the cooperative's volume reached $313,700,000 for the first half of the year as compared to $226,800,000 a year ago. Net savings before income taxes and equity income totaled $1,671,000 down $2,685,000 from last year. The reduction in savings from petroleum accounted for most of this decrease. Other factors were higher operating expenses, increased use of capital, and record high interest rates.

Total feed volume of 277,000 tons for the period was about the same as last year's volume for the first half of the fiscal year; fertilizer volume was 260,000 tons, up 32,000 tons over a year ago; seed volume was $6,800,000 up $1,445,000; farm supply volume was $34,407,000, up $252,000 over a year ago. While petroleum volume was 121,044,000 gallons, down 3.8 per cent from a year ago. This decrease was primarily in gasoline which follows the national trend toward conservation and less consumption.

Grain marketing volume was 13,205,000 bushels, down from 13,427,000 bushels a year ago. This reduction was due to drought conditions in a large section of the cooperative's 5-state territory, however, higher grain prices contributed to a dollar volume increase of $10,500,000 over last year.

Attending the session were: Ronald Coleman, Co-Mgr. of Coleman and Sons, Inc., Jimmy B. Tweedy, Concord, Va. and Hunt P. Hamilton, Appomattox, Va.
